NTCC board holds April meeting

By Jodi Weber Special to The Gazette

MOUNT PLEASANT --The Northeast Texas Community College Board of Trustees met April 25 for the monthly gathering.

NTCC Professor Theatre Martin Holden addressed the board during the Focus on Faculty segment of the meeting.

Holden was hired in 2016 to replace longtime professor Douglas Hoppock upon his retirement.

After graduating from NTCC in the 1990s, Holden went on to receive a Bachelor of Science degree from Texas A&M University-Commerce and a Master of Fine Arts degree from Baylor University.

He taught theatre for nine years at Lincoln Cola barbed-wire fence, a doorknob, a mirror on a car, a clothesline...just anything really...they're not aggressive because there's no larvae or brood or food to protect. They're pretty docile because they're gorged with honey. Just to prove to people how docile they are, I've walked up to a swarm of bees, stuck my hand in and pulled it out, and my hand is covered in bees and I can shake them off fine.'

Now, that's not to say they still won't sting, but it is well-known that the reason honeybees sting is because something has made them agitated, like trying to swat them with your hand.

'One might get on you and you might do like that (swipe your hand across to shoo-off the bee) and if you mash em' they're going to sting you."

King removed a bee swarm outside the Camp County Courthouse a few weeks ago using a special vacuum that doesn't harm the bees as they are sucked into a beekeeper's box. The vacuum regulates nities to become successful. Pittsburg High School is a campus where all students lege in Illinois before coming back to NTCC. He expressed his pleasure at being able to come back to work at his alma-mater and carry on the legacy of Hoppock, his former mentor and teacher.

The board heard a report on the Summer Success Program from Dr. Josh Stewart, NTCC Vice President for Student and Outreach Services.

He said the program, which allows graduating high school seniors an opportunity to take classes at NTCC during the summer and receive a scholarship to live on campus, is entering its second year.

Seventeen students participated in the pilot program last year and it is anticipated the program will enroll 40 this year.

the amount of air used to suck the bees into the box, whereas, if a regular vacuum was used, it would mostly likely kill or injure the bees.

"You vacuum up everything you see and then you take the box and set it on top of the beehive with the top of the hive removed. It has a sliding door in the bottom and you just slide that door out and the bees go into the hive. You put the top of the hive back on and then you're in business."

Honeybees are vital to the world's ecosystem as they transport pollen across every nook and cranny across the planet. The honeybee population is in danger according to King, which poses a threat to our environment.

"They're under threat from natural predators like mites and beetles and wax moths; insecticides have also taken a toll on them and so has loss of habitat: people don't plant trees for bees, they pour concrete. It doesn't matter where you live, you can do a part to help by planting some wildflowers. It's estimated that 70 to 80 percent of our food supply is dependent on honeybees pollinating the

"This is a great way for students to get a head start on their freshman year. Not only do they get to live on campus and experience college life, but we also have special programs that help them navigate the enrollment process and even teach them study skills,' Stewart said.

Students who will graduate from high school in 2017 are encouraged to contact Erika Garza at 903-434-8202 for more information or visit ntcc.edu/ summersuccess if they are interested in participating.

Many may not know just how dependent a lot of food producers are on honeybees.

"Almond growers pay beekeepers $200 a hive to set their hives in their orchards for six weeks. Pears, apples, particularly the fruit...and a lot of the grain crops depend on honeybees," said King.

King relocates the hives to his home, gives them to other beekeepers or gardeners who are interested in having a hive or in another safe area.

"Most importantly, people need to know that swarms aren't dangerous, just leave them alone and they'll be gone and if you're intimidated by them, call someone but don't kill them."

According to King, the bee business is picking up and he has a long waiting list of people wanting hives and he is taking that as a positive sign to keep the honeybee population strong and healthy.

So, the next time you see a honeybee or a group of honeybees, let them go on their merry way and pollinate the planet so you can enjoy that next bite of fruit.

rently, the entity can choose to simply say nothing, and the citizen is left to assume that his request was placed in File 13, fostering even more distrust in government.

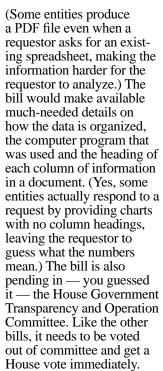

Bills that are agreed upon by major stakeholder groups normally sail through their committee hearing. But these three important bills met stiff opposition at a hearing in the House Government Transparency and Operation Committee on Monday, and now their fate is uncertain.

Here are three other bills that need to pass to restore Texas' standing as an opengovernment leader:

• SB 407 by Sen. Kirk Watson, D-Austin, and its companion, HB 792 by Rep. Giovanni Capriglione, R-Southlake, aim to repair the damage done by a 2015 Texas Supreme Court ruling. The court ruled that businesses and governmental entities can withhold information about their contracts with each other by claiming the information might put them at a competitive disadvantage in the future. Using this easy cover, city officials in McAllen sealed information on the amount they paid singer Enrique Iglesias to sing in the city's holiday parade. And the city of Denton sealed contract details on the largest capital project in the city's history - a quarter-billion-dollar municipal power plant being built with taxpayers' money. There are hundreds of other examples, and the list is growing daily. SB 407 has already passed the Senate. Like the previous bills, it is pending in the House Government Transparency and Operation Committee.

 SB 408 by Watson and its companion, HB 793 by Capriglione, aim to undo another bad 2015 Texas Supreme Court ruling. Ignoring decades of precedent, the high court ruled that a non-profit organization paid by the City of Houston to perform economic development work was not subject to the public information act. The result: taxpayers have no way to know how that money was spent. The Houston situation isn't unique. Many economic development groups receive the lion's share of their funding from governmental entities, and often the same elected officials who allocated the money to them serve on the groups' boards. SB 408 passed the conservative Texas Senate overwhelmingly, despite strong opposition from business interests. It too is pending in the House Government Transparency and Operation Committee.

• HB 3581 by Capriglione would give a citizen who requests governmental information the ability to get the information in the format in which it's filed.

A democracy without transparency is not a government run for the people. It is run on the backs of the people. Only the people themselves can put an end to that.

Tell your legislator what you think. You'll find contact information for legislators and legislative committees at www.legis. state.tx.us.

And don't wait until election season to call. Do it now.

Establishing Bermuda grass pastures takes time, preparation

By Adam Russell adam.russell@ag.tamu.edu

OVERTON – Producers planning to establish or expand Bermuda grass pastures can improve their chances of success with recommended practices, said a Texas A&M AgriLife Extension forage specialist.

The most important aspect for establishing a Bermuda grass pasture is land or site preparation, said Dr. Vanessa Corriher-Olson, forage specialist, Overton.

"If you don't prepare the ground well, you won't be successful," she said.

Soil tests are critical to determine how much lime, phosphorous and potassium will be needed to prepare the soil for optimal establishment and ultimately production of Bermuda grass, she said. Herbicides should be applied to kill all existing vegetation.

Corriher-Olson recommends using products with glyphosate, the active ingredient in Roundup. Applications should be made according to label recomsuch as Tifton 85 and Coastal, require establishment with sprigs. In that instance, producers should contact a reputable contract planter.

"When planting sprigs, it's easier for most people to hire a planter and have them planted because it takes special equipment," she said. "Hopefully you just need to plant once."

Producers should choose Bermuda grass varieties based on the site, such as whether the soil is welldrained or bottomland, and based on production expectations, she said

Producers who utilize seeded varieties should check labels regarding potential grass "blends" or "weed seed," which allow a certain percentage of weeds and undesirable plants.

Nitrogen should be applied after sprigs and seeds are actively producing "runners," above-ground stems, and are establishing more plants, she said. Corriher-Olson recommends 50-60 pounds of nitrogen per acre. "Depending on weather, you may not be able to harvest or graze a newly established pasture until September," she said. She also recommends over-seeding avoiding newly established pastures with cool-season forages to reduce competition for the fledgling pasture. Corriher-Olson said the Forage Fax website, https:// foragefax.tamu.edu/ can provide more information about establishing Bermuda grass, including a step-bystep guide for establishing sprigs.

except Shelby County where subsoil conditions were short. Panola County remained dangerously close to a short supply of soil moisture even with recent rains. A cold front brought high winds, lightning, thunder and rain. Tornadoes were reported in neighboring counties. Pasture and rangeland conditions were mostly fair to good with Rusk and Gregg counties reporting excellent. Hay meadows in Cherokee County were too wet for producers to harvest. Gregg County producers continued to apply herbicide and fertilizer to pastures. Pastures and hay fields continued to make good growth with moisture and sunshine in Polk County. Topsoil moisture conditions in Trinity County were decreasing because of the hard-blowing wind. Cool and even cold nights hurt grass production even with the rain. Oats and winter wheat were in very poor condition in Jasper County. Producers in Marion County were planting gardens. Livestock were in good condition. Cows were gaining weight. Spring cattle work was in progress. Selling of market-ready calves and cull cows continued in Polk County. Prices at the sale barn in Shelby County were getting better. Wild pigs continued to be active. NORTH: Topsoil and subsoil moisture levels ranged from mostly adequate to short. A cold front came through and brought more rain, with amounts ranging from 0.25 to 3 inches in most areas. Farmers continued to plant grain sorghum, soybeans and cotton between rain events. Producers estimated about 50-60 percent of crops were planted. All corn was planted and was in very good condition. Pastures were doing well due to recent rains. Winter pastures were harvested and production was above normal. Livestock were in good condition, but fly numbers on cattle were high. Wild hogs were causing some problems for livestock. There were four confirmed tornadoes in Van Zandt County. There was storm and tornado damage reported in multiple counties.

She also recommends two herbicide applications, one in the fall and one in the spring before Bermuda grass seeds or sprigs are introduced, to ensure elimination of any vegetation that might compete with the grass. Ryegrass can be planted as a cool-season cover crop between herbicide applications.

After land is plowed, disked and rolled, or packed, a heel print should leave no more than a quarter inch impression in the soil, she said. When soil is packed too firmly, seeds and sprigs may not be able to penetrate the soil and establish roots. Water may not absorb into the soil as well.

Nominations sought for EEE award

From Staff Reports

AUSTIN – The State Board of Education (SBOE) is accepting applications for the 2017 Employers for Education Excellence (EEE) Award. The annual award recognizes Texas employers who encourage and support employee participation in school activities.

Any Texas employer is eligible, including private businesses, nonprofit organizations and governmental and educational entities that meet the criteria.

Employers are eligible to receive an award at one of three levels: Bronze, Silver, or Gold. Eligibility is based on the business or organization meeting the following criteria:

• Bronze – An employer that implements a policy to

• Silver – An employer that meets the requirements of bronze, and implements a policy to encourage and support employees who volunteer in school activities.

• Gold – An employer that meets the requirements of silver, and implements a policy to encourage and support employees who participate in student mentoring programs in schools.

The EEE program requires a business to submit an application to the State Board of Education Support Division at the Texas Education Agency.

The application form is available online; it can be downloaded and mailed to the address on the application form, or filled out and submitted via email. The application deadline is June 30. Those employers selected to receive the award will receive a plaque that designates the level of recognition. The board will also approve a resolution recognizing the companies or organizations.

The EEE award is valid for three years. At the end of this period, the employer may reapply for the award.

The complete application must be emailed or postmarked by June 30 to: Texas Education Agency, SBOE Support Division, Employers for Education Excellence Award, 1701 Congress Avenue, Austin, Texas 78701 or emailed to sboesupport@tea.texas.gov.

Just four episodes into its 10episode run, Hulu has picked up The Handmaid's Tale for a second season, part of a growing original slate that includes Marvel superheroes, astronauts and CIA officials.

The prescient sci-fi drama, adapted from Margaret Atwood's 1985 dystopian classic, stars Mad

Men's Elisabeth Moss as Offred, a woman who is enslaved and forced to bear children for a military commander and his infertile wife.

The ambitious series co-stars Samira Wiley, Alexis Bledel and Joseph Fiennes, and has been embraced by critics. In her review, USA TODAY's Kelly Lawler awarded it $\star \star \star \star$ out of four, calling it "a somber and relevant story about the lives and fears of women."

Cancellation watch: See where your favorite shows sit in the shuffle

Next week marks a rite of spring: The upfronts, or the presentation of the broadcast networks' fall TV slates to advertisers, beginning May 15.

But first comes the culling of the herd.

This week, programming execs are deciding the fates of on-thebubble shows, either giving underperformers another season to find an audience or casting them off to make room for what they hope will be new hits.

The main factors in their decisions: ratings trends, creative momentum, profitability and their ownership stakes.

So far, the networks have been silent about the fates of the top five vote-getters from this year's Save Our Shows campaign: Timeless (NBC), Elementary (CBS), Blindspot (NBC), Last Man Standing (ABC) and Chicago Justice (NBC).

Jaimie Alexander and Blindspot wait for word.

But in the past few days, Fox has canceled Sleepy Hollow, Rosewood and Pitch, while NBC issued Taken a stay of execution, giving it a 16-episode order for the 2017-2018 season.

Check our list to see where your favorite shows stand. Note: All the prime-time series are grouped in one of three categories – already renewed or very likely to return; on the bubble; and on death's door or already canceled.

Renewed, or almost: American Housewife, Black-ish, Designated Survivor, The Goldbergs, Grey's Anatomy, How to Get Away With Murder, Marvel's Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D., The Middle, Modern Family, Once Upon a Time, Scandal, Speechless

On the bubble: American Crime, The Catch, Fresh Off the Boat, Imaginary Mary, Last Man Standing, Quantico

Canceled, or nearly dead: Conviction, Dr. Ken, Notorious, The Real O'Neals, Secrets and Lies, Time After Time

CBS

Renewed, or almost: The Big Bang Theory, Blue Bloods, Bull, Criminal Minds, Hawaii Five-0, Kevin Can Wait, Life in Pieces, MacGyver, Madam Secretary,

Man With a Plan, Mom, NCIS, NCIS: Los Angeles, NCIS: New Orleans, Scorpion, Superior Donuts

On the bubble: Code Black, Criminal Minds: Beyond Borders, Elementary, The Great Indoors, 2 Broke Girls

Canceled, or nearly dead: Doubt, The Odd Couple, Pure Genius, Training Day

FOX

Renewed, or almost: Bob's Burgers, Brooklyn Nine-Nine, Empire, Family Guy, Gotham, Lethal Weapon, Lucifer, The Mick, New Girl, The Simpsons, Star

On the bubble: The Exorcist, The Last Man on Earth, Making History, Prison Break, 24: Legacy

Canceled, or nearly dead: APB, Bones, Pitch, Rosewood, Scream Queens, Sleepy Hollow, Son of Zorn

NBC

Renewed, or almost: The Blacklist, Chicago Fire, Chicago Med, Chicago PD, The Good Place, Law & Order: SVU, Shades of Blue, Superstore, Taken, This Is Us

On the bubble: Blindspot, Chicago Justice, Timeless, Trial & Error

Canceled, or nearly dead: The Blacklist: Redemption, Emerald City, Grimm, Powerless

CW

Renewed, or almost: Arrow, Crazy Ex-Girlfriend, DC's Legends of Tomorrow. The Flash. Jane the Virgin, The 100, Riverdale, Supergirl, Supernatural

On the bubble: iZombie, The Originals
