Like a lot of classic American success stories, this one started with two men and a garage that saw things a little different than everyone else. In fact, in Bad Boy Mower's earliest days, competitors would freely offer the advice that we couldn't keep 'over-building mowers' like that and sell them 'for that low of a price.' We just didn't think there was anything wrong with building a zero turn mower that out-lasted everything else out there. And our customers sure didn't seern to mind saving a bit of money along the way. Our initial success moved us into 36,000 square feet of building and office space in 2002, and we began ramping up our commercial quality mower lines in earnest. Fast forward to the more than 1,000,000 square feet of manufacturing muscle and an ever growing workforce right in the heart of this country in the Ozark Mountains, and you'll find that classic American manufacturing and the classic American success story lives on—stronger than ever.
