Welcome to Southern Science Supply!

Southern Science Supply is owned and operated by Carol Espensen, a 30 year veteran of teaching in Texas. Carol understands the benefits of hands-on science instruction. She is passionate about fanning the spark of scientific inquiry in students from 4-94. Carol, as the face of Southern Science Supply, travels across the country supporting teachers, labs, research centers, museums and families as they connect with science in fun and meaningful ways. Many of our microscopes are used by students, teachers, scientists and hobbyists around the world. The MicroSight has even found its way into television shows, criminal investigations, doctors' offices and even NASA. We hope you enjoy our products. Let us know how we can help you!

The Story of Ed, The Southern Science Supply Frog

Growing up in rural San Antonio, I was surrounded by acres and acres to explore. Butterflies emerging, walking sticks, birds, snakes and more greeted me daily. My love of the outdoors and discovery began at an early age. When visiting family in Louisiana, I had new habitats to explore. I have fond memories of my grandfather, "Poppy" as I called him, walking me down to the bayou. He always told animated stories; one of my favorites follows. As we walked down to the bayou, he would say, "Do you hear that little bitty frog? Then in a high pitched voice he'd say, "toe deep, toe deep?" I'd nod, yes. "What about that one." he'd ask. Then in a slightly lower voice he'd say, "ankle-deep, ankle-deep." In a still lower voice he'd point and say, "That's 'knee deep, knee deep' over there." And in the lowest voice possible he'd croak "belly deep, belly deep" and then tell me about the biggest frog in the bayou. I'd giggle. And with that, my fascination with frogs began. My imaginary friend "Ed" was born, affectionately named after my grandfather. And, now, too, for "EDucation!" So, how did I end up here? I began teaching in 1978 and retired in 2013. Always passionate about putting science in the hands of students, Southern Science Supply was founded in 2012, and naturally, Ed came along for the ride. Today, he has lots of friends all over the USA!
