Texas Education Code Chapter 22 Contractor Certification for Contractor Employees

Introduction: Texas Education Code Chapter 22 requires Some entities that contract with school districts to provide services to obtain criminal history record information regarding covered employees. Contractors must certify to the district that they have complied. Covered employees with disqualifying criminal histories are prohibited from serving at a school district.

Definitions: Covered employees: Employees of a contractor or subcontractor who have or will have continuing duties related to the service to be performed at the District and have or will have direct contact with students. The District will be the final arbiter of what constitutes direct contact with students. Disqualifying criminal history: Any conviction or other criminal history information designated by the District, or one of the following offenses, if at the time of the offense, the victim was under 18 or enrolled in a public school:

(a) a felony offense under Title 5, Texas Penal Code; (b) an offense for which a defendant is required to register as a sex offender under Chapter 62, Texas Code of Criminal Procedure; or (c) an equivalent offense under federal law or the laws of another state.

I certify that:

NONE (Section A) of the employees of Contractor and any subcontractors are covered employees, as defined above. If this box is checked, I further certify that Contractor has taken precautions or imposed conditions to ensure that the employees of Contractor and any subcontractor will not become covered employees. Contractor will maintain these precautions or conditions throughout the time the contracted services are provided.

OR

SOME (Section B) or all of the employees of Contractor and any subcontractor are covered employees. If this box is checked, I further certify that:

(1) Contractor has obtained all required criminal history record information regarding its covered employees. None of the covered employees has a disqualifying criminal history.

(2) If Contractor receives information that a covered employee subsequently has a reported criminal history, Contractor will immediately remove the covered employee from contract duties and notify the District in writing within 3 business days.

(3) Upon request, Contractor will provide the District with the name and any other requested information of covered employees so that the District may obtain criminal history record information on the covered employees.

(4) If the District objects to the assignment of a covered employee on the basis of the covered employee's criminal history record information, Contractor agrees to discontinue using that covered employee to provide services at the District.

Noncompliance or misrepresentation regarding this certification may be grounds for contract termination.

Top 100 Roofing Contractors

Once again, Roofing Contractor offered roofing companies an opportunity to be part of its list of the Top 100 roofing contractors in the United States.

Companies were invited to share their total revenue in 2009, as well as their peak number of staff members and the percentage of their work that was residential versus commercial. The rankings are based solely on annual revenue, and participation was voluntary.

The names at the top of the list are the same as last year — Tecta America and CentiMark Corporation — but this year CentiMark edged out Tecta America for the top spot.

Roofing Contractor spoke with representatives from CentiMark and Tecta America to get their perspective on the year behind us and the one ahead.

We also did in-depth profiles of two contractors on the list who specialize in storm remediation work: Aspen Contracting Inc.

and Lon Smith Roofing and Construction.

Take a look at the profiles of these companies on the next few pages to see how some of the largest roofing contractors in the country are adapting in an ever-changing economic environment.

CentiMark Tops the List

The top revenue-generating company on the Roofing Contractor Top 100 list is Canonsburg, Pa.-based CentiMark Corporation. The company's 2009 revenue of $404.9 million was up one-half of one percent from 2008.

"Over the past 42 years CentiMark has grown internally through geographic expansions, increased product offerings and an aggressive National & Global Account program," said Timothy M. Dunlap, President and COO, CentiMark Corporation. "Our use of technology in roofing is a direct response to our customer's requests: AirClic phones to take before and after pictures; comprehensive online roof asset management programs

MEMORANDUM FOR HEADS OF EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENTS AND AGENCIES

FROM: STEVEN CHU Steven Chu

SUBJECT: Installation of Cool Roofs on Federal Government Buildings

The purpose of this memo is to encourage the Heads of all Federal Agencies to take maximum advantage of cool roof¹ technology in the construction of new Federal buildings and when replacing roofs on existing Federal buildings. I recently instructed Department of Energy (DOE) officials to use cool roofs except if DOE's Office of Energy Efficiency and Renewable Energy (EEER) grants a waiver because a life-cycle cost analysis demonstrates that a cool roof is uneconomical. As a result, unless a waiver is granted, all roof replacements and roofs for new construction throughout DOE must be cool roofs. Moreover, to enhance overall building thermal performance, new roofs on DOE buildings must have a thermal resistance of at least R-30². Adopting similar standards throughout the Federal Government would provide a number of benefits.

The Federal Government is the largest consumer of energy in the Nation. In Executive Order 13514, the President called on the Federal Government to set the example for the Nation on sustainability by reducing energy use and the production of greenhouse gases (GHG). Energy efficiency is one of the lowest cost options for reducing GHG emissions. Buildings account for 40 percent of U.S. energy use and about 35 percent of the Nation's GHGs. Cool roofs, which reflect sunlight and reduce heat gain, are an effective method for reducing building energy use. By reducing heat gain, a cool roof lowers the need for air conditioning and saves energy. Yet, cool roofs do even more. In an urban or campus setting, they reduce the "heat island effect," lowering ambient air temperature and improving air quality.

DOE's Office of Energy Efficiency and Renewable Energy recently issued a document entitled Guidelines for Selecting Cool Roofs. The document is available online at www.eere.energy.gov/femp/. In addition, DOE's Building Technology program has developed a Cool Roof Calculator that can help you quantify the benefits of cool roofs. The calculator is online at www.roofcalc.com.

Further assistance in developing cool roof standards for your Agency is available from DOE's Federal Energy Management Program (FEMP). Please take advantage of the resources provided by this and other DOE programs to assist you in improving your buildings through the use of cool roofs.

² R-30 = 30 hr ft² °F/BTU. Refer to ASHRAE 90.1 "Energy Standard for Buildings Except Low-Rise Residential Buildings."

Duro-Last Passes The Fire Test!

In 2008, Parsons installed the Duro-Last roof membrane on a portion of the First Baptist Church in Temple, TX on January 19, 2010. The Duro-Last roof membrane resists the fire that destroyed the church Sanctuary.

The pictures below show evidence of an unfortunate occurrence on another valued customer's roof involving their AC Unit. The unit caught fire and burst into flames that would have been uncontrollable on other roof systems. Duro-Last helped save this business from sustaining much worse fire damage.
