Overview

The autonomous disinfecting fogging robot is capable of disinfecting in excess of 100,000 square feet per hour under normal operation. The Breezy contains lidar and three-dimensional cameras - the same technology used in self-driving cars. The company starts by manually driving Breezy, and using the onboard lidar, the company quickly maps the facility and teaches Breezy where to go. Much like self-driving cars, Breezy is constantly scanning its environment looking for any obstacles to avoid. When detected, Breezy simply stops or drives around, depending on the condition.
