Overview

For over 40 years, Teaching Strategies has served the field of early childhood exclusively, bringing curriculum, assessment, social-emotional learning, family connection, and professional development resources to states, districts, and programs serving children from birth through third grade. We are committed to supporting the unique needs of our youngest learners and have worked closely with early childhood educators to design a comprehensive early childhood education program to nurture each and every child. Teaching Strategies believes that the best and most powerful way to improve child outcomes is through effective teaching. That is why we've created forward-thinking, comprehensive, research-based, and research-proven curriculum, assessment, and family engagement resources. These resources help preschool teachers and caregivers be their most effective, while still honoring their creativity and respecting their critical role in making learning exciting and relevant for every child. Our comprehensive solutions are used by early childhood educators across the country, helping them to offer developmentally appropriate programs that support active learning and promote children's progress in all developmental areas.
