Overview

Raising the Bar was founded by educators, for educators. We understand that assessment data is abundant and so are the expectations surrounding it. Our goal is simple, to guide schools in understanding and strategically using their state and interim assessment data to improve student outcomes. Raising the Bar Data provides white-glove data support for district/school level leadership and teachers; i.e., analysis of state and interim assessment data, data visualization, predictive report cards that correlate to state-specific accountability metrics, and professional development for data and best instructional practices. Raising the Bar Data also provides school board governance training to ensure all stakeholders are knowledgeable and best prepared to support their school communities.
